August 3, 2004

Special Edition: updated compilation of daily OT publications

— 2004 U.S. Olympic Trials Women —

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA

July 9–12, 15–18

Total attendance: 172,230 (avg. 21,529).

Daily attendance: 7/9—19,666; 7/10—20,440, 7/11—22,107, 7/12—20,122, 7/15—20,758, 7/16—22,303, 7/17—22,511, 7/18—24,323.

Weather: daily highs in the low 90s, evening sessions usually still mid-70s, except for first day, which was mid-60s. Generally sunny and bright with clouds rare, typically gusty wind.

In theory, first 3 in each event (who have all been bold-faced) make the Olympic Team, but state of A- and B-qualifiers made that not the case in many events. Given the complicated—and ongoing—nature of who will actually compete in Greece, we have made no attempt to delineate that here, in what is intended primarily as a results-reference source.

With two sets of meet records to take care of, MR=meet record for the USATF Championships (which this meet doubles as); OTR=Olympic Trials Record.

Paragraph breaks in the preliminary rounds of running events indicate the separation between qualifiers and non-qualifiers.

“e-s” notations in conjunction with either C or CL mean “extended-season,” which are marks by people who had collegiate affiliations during the year. Marks made after the NCAA Championships are not considered for inclusion on regular collegiate listings by T&FN.

This material was original sent out in 8 daily packages from Sacramento; a men’s compilation was sent out as eTN 29. This version also contains the earlier women’s marathon trial.

10m Splits In Women's 100 Final

(data derived by USATF Women's Sprint Development)

* = fastest increment of race

(T&FN has questioned why there is almost uniform deceleration between 50m and 60m, then acceleration in the next 10m. The official explanation is that the wind shifted from head to tail. We remain somewhat skeptical about the 60m split having been taken at the right point.)

Top speeds, based on average velocity for a 10m segment: Colander 10.75mps/24.05mph; Edwards 10.64mps/23.80mph; L. Williams, Devers, Jones & Lee 10.53mps/23.55mph; A. Williams 10.42mps/23.31mph; Daigle 10.31mps/23.06mph.
