Belova, Motti Suspended

Russian heptathlete Irina Belova has been hit with a 4-year suspension by the IAAF. Belova won the pentathlon at the World Indoor Champs in March of '93, but her urine sample was red-flagged in the testosterone department.

The Russian federation, as part of an appeal filed on Belova's behalf, asked for an endocrinologic examination to see if there might be a "natural" explanation for her high testosterone levels.

That test had to be postponed for months, as Belova by that time was pregnant, which altered her entire hormone profile. Unfortunately, Belova miscarried in November, which allowed the tests to be performed.

The Russians announced in March that the tests were not in Belova's favor, and that the original 4-year suspension should stand.

French decathlete William Motti has fallen afoul of the drug-testing system again, but despite having a second offense, hasn't received a lifetime ban.

Motti had a positive steroid test in '89 and served a 2-year ban. Under current IAAF regulations, a second such result (or a refusal to be tested, which is treated the same) is grounds for a lifetime sentence.

Injuring a knee during a January heptathlon, Motti retired from the competition. His number came up in post-competition testing, but since he felt he wasn't any longer a part of the situation, he simply left. Three days later, threatened with suspension, he did submit to a urine test and passed.

In a hearing of the case, the French federation felt the situation deserved some clemency, and a penalty of only a single year was imposed. That's at odds with IAAF policy.

Status Quo

Fresno State's indoor hurdle champ, Robert Foster, contracted viral meningitis after leaving Indy and lost 10 pounds.

"I still feel pretty weak," said the Jamaican star in early April. "I'll need another couple of weeks to get my time down." . . .

After contracting hepatitis in February Houston sprinter Sam Jefferson had to bypass the SWC and NCAA Indoor. As his condition bettered, Jefferson limited his outdoor action to relay duty before his first 100 of the season at Mt. SAC. . .

Knee tendinitis that hampered Barcelona 200 champ Michael Marsh for much of '93 was corrected last fall.

"It was full surgery, not just a scope," says the AR holder for the half-lap. "The knee still isn't totally strong, but it's far better than it was last year. . .

"It's healing slowly, but I'm working well on it. It's a little sore after competing, but when the adrenaline flows, I don't feel it in a race." . . .

Bill Payne vaulted at the Texas Relays despite having just dislocated his shoulder. "He's tougher than nails," said rival Scott Huffman. "If that had been me I would've called it a night. They raise 'em tough here in Texas." . . .

Still bothered by a bad left leg which contributed to his missing the NCAA Indoor, Villanova miler Louie Quintana will redshirt this season. . .

The Texas Relays (a win at 6-1½) marked just the second meet for Connie Teaberry since having reconstructive knee surgery last September. "I'm a little sore," she says, "but no worse than when I didn't have a ligament at all."

A Tie In The Poll

It doesn't get any closer in the USTCA/T&FN Coaches Dual Meet Poll. On the women's side, Nebraska and Washington are knotted in a tie. The Huskers are sure to be a strong dual meet force, and get their first big test this weekend against Tennessee. The Huskies, meanwhile, have notched an impressive 7 wins so far this season.

The top men's squad is Tennessee, but the coming battle against Nebraska could be crucial. Arkansas could slip from the runner-up position, as the Razorbacks don't have a dual scheduled this season.

Won-loss records shown are for competitions against other Division I opponents in meets featuring four or fewer teams, or larger meets that have dual scoring (dnc=no dual competition yet). Scores are given as a percentage of a perfect vote, i.e. 100.0 is a unanimous selection as No. 1.
