1995 Collegiate AOYs

John Godina and Diane Guthrie-Gresham have been chosen the T&FN Collegiate Athletes Of The Year.

Godina, a UCLA senior, stunned the shot field at the NCAAs with a Collegiate Record toss of 72-2¼, breaking the 71-11 that former Bruin John Brenner set in winning the '84 NCs.

That followed a 10-foot-plus win in the discus, another event which Godina leads the collegiate list in (213-0).

Balász Kiss, from crosstown rival USC, rated No. 2 in the selection. Kiss, a senior, dominated the hammer all year and currently leads the world with his Collegiate Record 268-10.

Also a senior, George Mason's Guthrie-Gresham crushed the heptathlon Collegiate Record by a stunning 137 points with her 6527 score in Knoxville. She left her competition nearly 700 points behind. Earlier in the meet she had taken 2nd in the long jump at 22-¼, and she followed the multi with a tie for 4th in the high jump (6-½).

UCLA sophomore Amy Acuff took runner-up honors. The high jumper had a banner season topped by a CR leap of 6-6 and a win at the NCAAs (6-5).

1995 Relay Rankings

George Mason—despite not leading an individual event—topped the men's relay rankings for the first time, while LSU won its third overall title on the women's side in the 39th Annual T&FN Relay Rankings.

Full rankings will appear in the August issue of Track & Field News, but here's a quick look at the event winners in Walt Murphy's annual compilation:

1995 Dual Poll Finale

The conclusion of this year's USTCA/T&FN Dual Meet Poll produced a bit of a surprise. In top 5 voting conducted by the NCAA coaches assembled in Knoxville, Oregon's men (8-0) and North Carolina's women (7-0) earned honors as the nation's top dual squads.

North Carolina had led both men's and women's polls throughout the regular-season voting, but in an unexpected final analysis the men's team was bumped all the way to No. 3.

The final standings:

Ellis Gets Heart Transplant

USATF president Larry Ellis underwent a heart transplant last Friday at New York's Sinai Medical Center. "He'll be listed as critical for two or three days," said a hospital spokeswoman. "That's routine after an operation like that. The doctor said he's doing very well."

According to Ellis's wife, Shirley, the '84 Olympic coach's heart ailment was a congenital one that did not become apparent until recently. "He was not aware of it until it was discovered about four years ago," she said. "Not until last year did he become very ill."

Ellis, the head coach at Princeton for 22 years, had been on the waiting list for a transplant. "When the doctor told him yesterday he was getting it, he was so excited," recounted his wife.

If It Walks Like A Duck. . .

The principles won't agree on who was to blame, but it's nonetheless a fact that last year's two top-ranked sprinters, Dennis Mitchell and Linford Christie, ran in separate sections of the 100 at Rome's Golden Gala.

"I'm not going to duck other athletes," Mitchell said before the race. "I'm just going to compete and let the chips fall where they may." Meet organizers, however, say Mitchell refused to run in the same race as Christie.

Top athletes' ducking each other is one of the severest problems track faces, and the Italian incident is far from an isolated case.

Long jumper Kareem Streete-Thompson wasn't too thrilled when neither Carl Lewis nor Mike Powell showed up to jump against him at the New York Games. Streete-Thompson said his rivals were just interested in "preserving their rankings and only compete when they're in their best shape."

On the positive side of the coin, one must single out male high hurdlers, who in recent years have shown no fear when it comes to going head-to-head. "If all athletes did this, I think track would be more popular in the United States," Mark Crear told the New York Times.

Two-time Olympic champ Roger Kingdom sounded a similar note in the Arizona Republic, saying, "We have to go after athletes to compete against each other, not just one athlete in each race. That's what keeps the ratings up. That's what people want to see.

"They don't want to see the San Francisco 49ers race the Tampa Bay Buccaneers all the time. We need the competition."

Christie Says No Atlanta

Olympic/world 100 champ Linford Christie claims he won't try to defend his Games title in Atlanta.

The 35-year-old Briton made the assertion on an English sports TV show on June 12, saying, "I'm definitely not going. It's gotten to the stage now where athletics isn't my life."

Some observers speculated Christie's claim was a bargaining move with the British Athletics Federation to gain higher appearance fees at this summer's meets in Britain.

Christie, known to have a sensitive spot when it comes to this side of the pond, said he felt he wasn't getting enough money, and foreign athletes were getting to much. "I turn up for my club and I run for free," he said. "But the BAF, they're going over to Sacramento and paying the top Americans to bring them over here."

But Ron Roddan, Christie's coach of nine years, said, "Linford has been talking about [retirement] for some time. I think he really has made up his mind.

"I don't blame him. I've always said Linford won't be truly appreciated until he is gone."

Christie also cited what he feels is his harsh treatment by the British press as a reason for calling it quits after this season.

"The media needs me as much as I need them" he said. "If they don't write about me, they don't eat. They should encourage me. Encouragement strengthens labor; they should realize that.

"But they just go on about my age. I don't need that. There was a headline last year that said, 'Christie Loses At Last.' That's all they were waiting for."

Status Quo

INJURY OF THE MONTH: Plantar fasciitis, an inflammation of connective tissue on the sole of the foot. It prematurely ended last summer's Euro tour for WR-setting sprinter Leroy Burrell and has laid him low again this year. He has been unable to race since Penn.

Also hobbled was Arkansas's star Canadian miler Graham Hood, who couldn't start the NCAA final. . .

Injury of the month II: Achilles problems. Georgia Tech coach Grover Hinsdale had to make do without three of his top runners this spring as David Krummenacker, Jonas Motiejunas and Conrad Nichols all redshirted the outdoor season after being sidelined during the indoor campaign and missing too much training.

And WR-holding hurdler Sally Gunnell injured an Achilles during a spring training session in Florida and probably won't run until late July. . .

In Cuba, the malady of the moment relates to knees. High jump WR holder Javier Sotomayor was laid up in April and May by a sore knee. Cuban officials said history's only 8-footer was injured in an "unlucky domestic accident."

After her second Pan-Am discus title Maritza Martén underwent knee surgery. That may limit the effectiveness of the Barcelona winner, who missed last year while pregnant. . .

Saïd Aouita was scheduled to start his outdoor campaign at the New York Games. A pulled leg muscle killed those plans. . .

Leading U.S. hurdler Kim Batten had an emergency appendectomy in early June. No word on how it will affect her regards Sacramento participation. . .

Last year's No. 3-ranked decathlete, France's Alain Blondel, won't compete before Göteborg, as he has been troubled by a pull in his right thigh. . .

Star hurdler Bryan Bronson left Rice for undisclosed reasons and did not compete at the NCAA. . .

Major heel surgery performed on Italian Andrea Benvenuti, the '94 European 800 champ, could compromise his whole '95. . .

Marc Davis could only stand and watch as Bob Kennedy and Todd Williams made an assault on his 2M AR at Pre, as he had foot surgery in early May. The lost training time will force him to choose the steeple over the 5K at nationals.
